Reuben Hoar Library
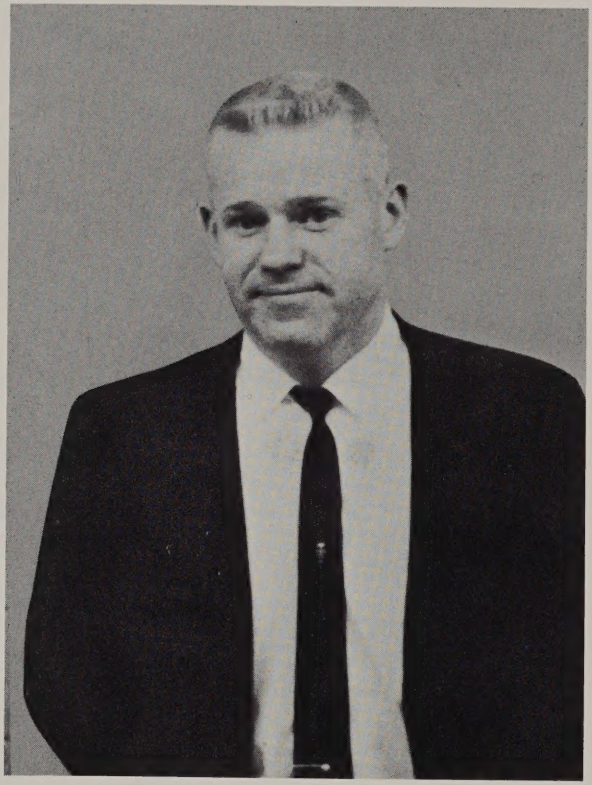
Littleton, Mass.



A few years from now the members of the class of 1968 will have established themselves as citizens in our sometimes satisfying and sometimes frustrating society. Some will have found a vocation; others will have attended college. Yet, all will remember their years in Littleton High School. Foremost in these memories will be the teachers who have dedicated themselves not only to education but also to the formation of character through their patient guidance. The two individuals who, we feel, have sacrificed the most for the senior class are Mr. Hardy and Mr. Gurner.

As our class adviser for three years, Mr. Hardy held a position that included helping in everything from car washes to bake sales. Then, of course, there was the junior prom with long hours devoted to building the castles of "Emerald City". Upon Mr. Gurner fell the tasks of the senior year, undoubtedly the most difficult but rewarding year for all students. There were class trips, portraits to be taken, the play, and finally graduation.

It is hard to say which of these memories will linger the longest for each student. Maybe Mr. Hardy will be remembered more for his enthusiasm in sports than for his role as adviser; perhaps Mr. Gurner will be remembered for his fondness of great literature and music. However, each member of the class can attribute the formation of a small part of his character to these individuals. Therefore, the class of 1968 would like to return some of this dedication by dedicating this yearbook to Mr. Hardy and Mr. Gurner.

A.F.S. Student

When I first arrived in Littleton, I avow I was a little afraid to go to High School. Many of the A.F.S. students I had met before had told me that their first weeks had been confusing and sometimes discouraging. However, on the first day of school my anxiety rapidly vanished when I saw all those smiles welcoming me; each one told me I was going to find all the help and the friendliness I needed. This first impression was definitely right. The kindness and the congeniality of everybody helped me to get accustomed quicker than I had expected and thus, to benefit from everything I learned. I would have liked to bring to LHS as much as it brought to me! My best wish is that one day, a student from Littleton will go to France as an A.F.S.er, and --who knows?--to Château-Arnoux's Lycée!

To The Senior Class:

The publication of this Yearbook is one more sign that your high school career is rapidly drawing to a close. I hope that with the help of our teachers and administrators you have developed those skills and attitudes which will enable you to live a rich and meaningful life.

We trust you will never forget that you are a unique individual possessing unique physical and mental capacities, and bearing a responsibility to develop these capacities to their full potential.

The future is yours, and the future will be what you make it. Go, but come back often and tell us of your experiences in your new world!

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Kidd, the Brass Choir has become one of the most successful and popular musical groups in the school. They performed brilliantly in the 1967 Christmas Concert and continue to add dignity to many of the school's ceremonies and assemblies. The Brass Choir has also been giving short concerts and has been lecturing about their insturments to the elementary grades.

The Glee Club, not pictured, although smaller this year than in previous years continues to add their harmony to concerts and other performances . . .

Math Team

One of the newest and most popular activities at Littleton High School is the Math Club. In its initial venture last year into inter-scholastic competition, the Math Team won out over all rivals in the Wachusett League. This year the Math Team competed in three league meets.

The Littleton High Team is composed of Thomas Todd, Stephen Smith, Gregory Methe, Joanne Balsamo, Caroline Young, Ronald Meyers, Randall Smith, and Christopher Branagan. They are coached by Mr. Robert Hardy and Miss Gloria Shahood of the Mathematics Department.

Perhaps the most unusual feature of this activity is the fact that it is the only club which can boast of possessing its own cheerleader. Joanne Balsamo, one of the members of the club, doubles as the cheerleader.

The Play Committee

The members of the Senior Play Committee, with the approval of the directors, selected THE SPIRAL STAIRCASE as the dramatic production of the class of 1968. This suspense-filled mystery attracted capacity audiences for the two performances of May 10th and 11th. An unusual feature of this production was the performance, in a leading role, of our AFS student, Sylvie Rousselet. Much of the credit for the success of the performances is due to the service provided by members of this committee.

SUMMARY

AYER: It is very difficult to determine Ayer's strength each year because of the new prospects the Army provides. We received a scare from them and emerged with a hard fought close victory. In this game we were testing new first team members. The veterans' line proved the difference in this game, however. MURDOCK: In this game it was soon apparent that our line was superior and we further discovered that a few young backs were going to help Cronin. Jim MacDougal scored a very important first TD to get the team moving. A very good Murdock team was held in check by an aggressive defensive line and alert linebackers. WESTFORD: In the opinion of the coaching staff this was our hardest game and the turning point in our season. The weather was very hot and humid, the field was not in good shape. But our line was immense and Cronin superb! The difference in this game was Littleton's "Spirit". LUNENBURG: We approached this game with terrific spirit and hard work. As the game unfolded it became evident that our defensive team was vastly outplaying Lunenburg and the coaches felt that if this continued we would control the game. We did! Sweet victory after losing to them last year. NORTH MIDDLESEX: The bench was given the opportunity to play in this game and we discovered great talent, especially Bobby McCleary. Cone's passing matured in this game and had we chosen to use it God knows what the score could have been. Good warm up gave for the next two "big" games. OAKMONT: In such an important game we get the worst weather of the season but we were ready! Great coaches have always held that "rain is a great unequalizer". This unfortunately held true and although we outplayed Oakmont for three quarters, we emerged tied-- BUT NOT BEATEN! NASHOBA: Wachusetts League title at stake with both teams unbeaten. There was no question about this game, we just weren't going to lose. The entire team played their best and with great defense and ball control on offense we dominated the game although the score does not indicate this. Littleton physically beat the Nashoba boys and emerged Wachusett League Champs 1967. ACTON: The story of this game is frustration and unbelieveable playing conditions. Results: 0-0 tie and great disappointment! Acton's coach indicated we had the best line they had faced all year.

Coaches: Head coach McKenna, Line coaches, Learmouth, Gillis, and Hardy.

The LHS Girl's Basketball team had a very successful season. How can you say a losing season is a successful one? You really can't, not by conventional standards, but we'll use our own standards to judge. At no time during the season did the Tigers concede victory to their opponents until the final buzzer. Another factor in the team's favor was the fever-pitched fight they showed in every contest and their sportsmanship after every game. The team ended the season with a record of four wins and eight losses. They were badly beaten only three times. five of the eight losses were decided by eight points or less.

But the significant element which helped make the year successful was the visible change in the attitude shown on and off the court by our opponents. The previous year the Tigers had been a pushover for every team in the league, but it soon became apparent to our opponents that the 1968 Tigers were a team to be recognized and respected. Unless our opponents were ready for a tough game they would be beaten. We lost our first games to Ayer, Nashoba, and Groton by a total of ten points.

Much of the teams' determination and aggressive play was due to the leadership of the Seniors, Co-captians Denyse Pasciuto and Helen LeBlanc, guards Wendy Johnson, Sue Ammenwerth and Barbara Coole.

The underclassmen were welcome additions to the team and deserve much praise for their hard work and hustle.

Although lacking in height, inch for inch the LHS Tigers were one of the best teams in the league. What they lacked in height they made up for in heart.

Good luck to the seniors, and may the underclassmen have many more successful seasons.
